DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-7 are still rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Butler et al (Fig. 2).

Regarding claims 1, 2 and 6, Butler et al (Fig. 2) discloses an amplifier circuit comprising an input stage (J1, J2) including two transistors, and an amplification stage (2) which receives a signal (the signals coming out of the drains of J1 and J2) from the input stage (J1, J2) and provides an output signal (output of 2) related to the signal (the signals coming out of the drains of J1 and J2), and wherein the threshold voltage implants of the input stage transistors (J1, J2) produce controlled offset voltage at an output (output of 2) of the amplification stage (2). Since the structural limitations of the Butler et al (Fig. 2) are the same as the claimed invention, Butler et al (Fig. 2) has a capability to perform the claimed functional limitations. As described above, Butler et al (Fig. 2) discloses all the limitations in the claims except for that the two transistors having different threshold voltage implants. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have implemented the specific threshold voltage of the transistors, since they are based on the routine experimentation to obtain the optimum operating parameters.

Regarding claim 3, the two transistors of the input stage (J1, J2) are two source coupled transistors.

Regarding claims 4, 5 and 7, the two transistors of the input stage (J1, J2) are the p-channel MOS transistors (see column 1, lines 58-62).

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-7 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
